

A WONDERFUL CAVE

Discovered by Miners Near Aspen, Colorado.

Chambers of Wondrous Beauty, in One of Which the Remains of People of an Unknown Race Are Found.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 12.—A most remarkable story reached here today from Aspen, Col., regarding an unexpected find in one of the principal mines on Aspen Mountain. Last Thursday night the night shift in the Minnie mine, Mr. Donnelly, C. W. Mackey, Chas. E. Taylor and C. W. Gilliland, put in two thirty-inch holes in the breast of the mine, and fired the blast just before leaving for the surface. On returning to the mine it was found that the two shots had broken into a cave, the extent of which they proceeded to explore. Going in a few feet they found the walls covered with crystallized lime and lead that glittered like diamonds. Here and there little skeletons hung from the ceiling. The mine formation resembled lace and frieze-work of wondrous beauty. The cave had a descent of about twenty degrees, and they found rooms and chambers grand beyond description. They had entered about two hundred feet when they found a flint axe; a little further was a pool of fresh water, and a strong current of fresh air was felt. Further on another chamber was discovered that was covered with a brownish mud that was very sticky. Gilliland, who was in the lead, suddenly stopped and cried: "Goodness, there sits a boy!" Sure enough, there sat a human form. The head was resting on the knees, the arms drawn around the legs, Indian fashion. A stone bowl and axe were found beside the figure. The body was well preserved, but trying to lift it one arm broke off. Other bodies in different attitudes were found in the chamber, and when disturbed would crumble. One stone man was brought out with the loss of arms and feet, and turned over to physicians at Glenwood Springs. The discovery has caused great excitement in Aspen, as the bodies do not seem to be those of Indians.

TOO MUCH PRESSURE

On Natural Gas Pipes at Pittsburgh—An Explosion Caused Which Was Serious in Its Consequences—Two Men Killed and a Dozen Injured.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10.—There was a terrible explosion of a natural gas main on the South Side shortly after six o'clock this evening, which resulted in the killing of two men instantly, fatally injuring two more and seriously injuring some fifteen others. The accident, rather a peculiar one. Booth and Flynn were testing a thirty-inch natural gas main which they had laid for the Monongahela Natural Gas Company. Their workmen were testing the main before turning on the natural gas, by means of compressed air. They ran the pressure up to seventy-five pounds per square inch, when the dead-end on the end of the pipe blew out, scattering debris in every direction. Several hundred workmen employed in the iron mills near by were just returning home, and a number of them had stopped along the trench to watch the experiment. They were struck by the debris and flying missiles as though a bomb had exploded. The pipe was braced by heavy timbers, and these were hurled into the crowd with terrific force. The workmen and spectators were thrown down by the force of the explosion, and one of the killed was hurled against a brick house and his neck broken. A general stampede followed the explosion, and a scene of the wildest excitement ensued. The cries of the injured could be heard for several squares. An investigation showed that two men had been killed outright and about fifteen others injured, two of them fatally.

The burial will be made here to-day.

REAL ESTATE "SNAP."

Slick Scheme of a Florida Railroad Company Who Give Town Lots Away.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Assistant Librarian Souder, of the National Museum, has discovered a neat real estate operation in Florida land, which he describes as follows: "A short time ago I received by mail a deed to a lot in a town in Florida from a railroad company there, with a letter telling me that if I would accept the property free I could do so by recording the deed. For that purpose I sent $1.25 to the recorder with the deed, and now I own the lot. It looked like a snap, but I found out that the company hired a clerk to record the deeds and themselves received the fee. There are about ten lots of the size of the one they gave me to an acre, so they receive $12.50 per acre for the ground from the fees, and you could buy all the land about that place you want for $1.25 per acre from the Government. I am not looking for snaps now. I want to pay hard cash and full price for whatever I get."

SLEEPER HELD UP.

A Robber With a Slouch Hat, a Gun and a Big Knife.

Overcame the Conductor and Porter, Who Surrendered—The Lone Highwayman Helps Himself to a Passenger's Valuables.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 9.—The Wisconsin Central passenger from Chicago, which passed Chippewa Falls, Wis., yesterday morning, was held up and robbed by a single man between Chippewa Falls and Abbotsford last night. The robber, a man named a man entered one of the sleeping cars of the train, commanded the conductor and porter to throw up their hands and then proceeded to go through them, taking all they had. One passenger was also robbed. A shot or two was fired at the robber, but he was not hurt. The robber pulled the bell-rope as soon as he had committed the robbery, and when the train came to a stop jumped off and escaped. No attempt was made to follow him. Jacob Litt, a Milwaukee and Minneapolis theatrical manager, was a passenger in the sleeper, and the ball fired at the porter whizzed past within an inch of his face. The man was described as having the appearance of a woodsman. He wore a slouch hat and carried a gun and a big knife in his belt. He entered the sleeper and drove the porter to one end of the car. The porter did some yelling to awake the passengers, whereupon the robber fled. This put a quietus on the porter, and the robber got in his work. He took from the conductor $30 and a silver watch, from the porter a gold watch and a small amount of money and from a passenger some money and a watch. He tackled another passenger, but the latter told him the conductor had all of his money. As a matter of fact, however, the man had $500 on his person.

FLAGS AMONG HORSES IN DAVIES COUNTY.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 8.—A remarkable and very disastrous plague to stock is now raging in Davies County, Ind. During the past few weeks a number of farmers in various parts of that county have lost some of their finest horses. An investigation as to the cause of the strange occurrences brought to light what seems an incredible state of affairs, but has proved an absolute fact. It was found that ticks are actually killing horses, which the pests attack in great swarms, and suck the blood from the animal until it is helpless and is relieved of its sufferings by death. Examination shows that the pests eat their way through the hide into the flesh. It is thought the ticks were brought here by the Texas ponies, which have been sold here in large numbers in the past few months. The ticks attack cows, but do not seem to have the same effect as on horses.

Deadly Explosion on Board a Yacht—Four Lives Ended on the Sea of a Pleasure Trip.

BUFFALO, Aug. 8.—Yesterday afternoon, while the yacht Cedar Ridge, owned by Mr. L. L. Crocker, was being got ready for a trip down the river, and just as the engines had started the fire, two explosions occurred on board in rapid succession. The yacht at once took fire and burned to the water's edge. Of those on board the following were burned to death: E. H. Crocker, Leonard Crocker, Howard Crocker, all children of the owner of the yacht; John Rubenstein, a carpenter working on the dock. The injured were Charlotte Crocker, Miss Melman, a friend, both badly injured, and Engineer Peter Volmyer, burned. Simultaneously with the explosion two or three persons were thrown into the water. Caleb Tolson got a boat and pulled up a young woman, Miss Melman, and from the water. She was badly burned and taken to the hospital. At this time the form of Mr. Crocker's young son, Howard, was seen standing on the boat's deck against a background of fire. A pile pole was extended toward the little fellow till it almost touched his breast, but he seemed paralyzed and fell back into the fire and burned to a crisp before the horrified gaze of onlookers. Rubenstein was thrown from the yacht, and fell just over the blazing boat. For a few moments he hung, then loosened his hold and dropped into the furnace below. The other children of Mr. Crocker—Leonard Lemuel, aged 9 years and 10 months, and Ethel, a daughter aged 8 years—also perished in the flames. Another girl—Charlotte, aged 14 years—was blown into the water and rescued therefrom, and sent along with Miss Melman to the hospital. The accident was caused when the engineer lit the match for ignition of the fuel by the explosion of some gas which had leaked out.

The other children of Mr. Crocker—Leonard Lemuel, aged 9 years and 10 months, and Ethel, a daughter aged 8 years—also perished in the flames. Another girl—Charlotte, aged 14 years—was blown into the water and rescued therefrom, and sent along with Miss Melman to the hospital. The accident was caused when the engineer lit the match for ignition of the fuel by the explosion of some gas which had leaked out.

BLAZING NAPHTHA.

Deadly Explosion on Board a Yacht—Four Lives Ended on the Sea of a Pleasure Trip.

BUFFALO, Aug. 8.—Yesterday afternoon, while the yacht Cedar Ridge, owned by Mr. L. L. Crocker, was being got ready for a trip down the river, and just as the engines had started the fire, two explosions occurred on board in rapid succession. The yacht at once took fire and burned to the water's edge. Of those on board the following were burned to death: E. H. Crocker, Leonard Crocker, Howard Crocker, all children of the owner of the yacht; John Rubenstein, a carpenter working on the dock. The injured were Charlotte Crocker, Miss Melman, a friend, both badly injured, and Engineer Peter Volmyer, burned. Simultaneously with the explosion two or three persons were thrown into the water. Caleb Tolson got a boat and pulled up a young woman, Miss Melman, and from the water. She was badly burned and taken to the hospital. At this time the form of Mr. Crocker's young son, Howard, was seen standing on the boat's deck against a background of fire. A pile pole was extended toward the little fellow till it almost touched his breast, but he seemed paralyzed and fell back into the fire and burned to a crisp before the horrified gaze of onlookers. Rubenstein was thrown from the yacht, and fell just over the blazing boat. For a few moments he hung, then loosened his hold and dropped into the furnace below. The other children of Mr. Crocker—Leonard Lemuel, aged 9 years and 10 months, and Ethel, a daughter aged 8 years—also perished in the flames. Another girl—Charlotte, aged 14 years—was blown into the water and rescued therefrom, and sent along with Miss Melman to the hospital. The official appetite of Mr. H. H. Canabill, of this county, has been appeased with an appointment as a brandy gauger, with assignments in the various counties.

The unsuccessful attempt was made to burn the Lexington, Pa., newspaper, a newspaper correspondent sent him failed to extinguish the fire.

Judge Sharpe carried Fayette, his home county, by the largest majority ever given to any man in that county since the war, either Democrat or Republican. His majority was 2,500. Colson majority in Bell, his home county, fell far below Republican expectations.

The Dr. Brown-Sequard "elixir of life" is the subject of much comment at present, and many physicians of the country are experimenting with it. The claim for the discovery is that by its use a human life can be extended a number of years beyond its natural extent. The most remarkable thing about the subject is its absurdity.

Since the late election, defeated Davis Colson has been watching the experiments with the "elixir of life" with more interest than most other people. He has recently concluded that his only hope of becoming Treasurer of Kentucky rests in the question of the new discovery proving equal to the task of prolonging life and vitality on this mortal sphere for a period of a month or such a matter. By that time he thinks the State may possibly be given to Republicanism.

According to the figures of the Treasury Department, there was a net decrease of $459,113 in the money in circulation during the month of July. The total amount of money in circulation, August 1, is stated at $1,379,686,937, and the total money and bullion in the Treasury on the same date at $6,52,012,029.

Huntington's Purchase.
(Courier-Journal, Aug. 11.)

The report published a week ago in the Courier-Journal to the effect that Mr. Huntington had bought the Chattahoochee road, from Ashland to Richmond, Ky., in the face of the statements of that gentleman that he was to dispose of all his interests east of the Ohio river, has been confirmed, and is now accepted as a fact by railroad men generally. Mr. George C. Wood, one of the wealthiest bankers of New York, and Chairman of the Purchasing Committee of bondholders, is quoted as saying that within the past ten days Mr. Huntington had acquired something over $500,000 of the certificates of the Chattahoochee, and had thus a controlling interest in the road, which, as far as Mr. Huntington's needs are concerned, are equal to ownership.

As to his future plans in regard to his new purchase, it is thought that he will at once extend the line through the Cumberland Mountains to a connection with the Charleston, Cincinnati and Chicago and the Norfolk and Western roads. It will thus give Mr. Huntington a shorter route to the sea from Catlettsburg than the Chesapeake and Ohio, and will also furnish an outlet for the N. N. and M. V. company.

It would be interesting to know how the esteemed New York Sun regards the Kentucky election returns. When the State nominating convention adopted the platform pronouncing for tariff reform more uncompromisingly than ever, the Sun professed to be saddened by the prospect of party defections, but on that very platform the Kentucky Democrats won a rousing, old-time victory, and reduced the Republican contingent in the Legislature to a mere corporal's guard.—St. Louis Republic.

"The Elixir of Life."
(Nebraska State Journal.)

The theory of Brown-Sequard is that decay sets in because of the languid cell life of the body. The cells have gone on from infancy producing new cells and passing away until the power of constant reproduction is impaired and with it is impaired the vitality of the body. Now, by introducing a new breed of living cells from a young and vigorous animal the cell life is immediately quickened and renewed, and the inoculated organism renews its physical youth, and with that renewal comes the invigoration of the brain as well as all other functions.

Blue Grass Blade, the queer paper published by Mr. Charles C. Moore, at Lexington, has suspended for want of patronage. The long-felt want which it was expected to fill failed to recognize it as the proper plug, and consequently, being unable longer, to air his pronounced views on so expensive a plan, Mr. Moore wisely concluded that the best way to make money out of his paper was to stop it. Lexington doesn't want any higher moral organs in hers, perhaps.—Owensboro Inquirer.

Don't fill the system with quinine, to prevent or cure Fever and Ague. Ayer's Ague Cure is the specific for this disease, and leaves no poisons to produce dizziness, deafness, headache, or other disorders.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: A few days ago a large number of Republican organs were boasting that Kentucky was about to join the group of Republican States. Now those organs have to print the fact that the Democrats of Kentucky polled a beastly majority of some 40,000 votes. This is one of the sad spectacles furnished by the certainties of Southern politics and the foolishness of Republican organs.

Young, old, and middle aged, all experience the wonderfully beneficial effects of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young children, suffering from sore eyes, sore ears, cold head, or with any scrofulous taint, become healthy and strong by the use of this medicine. Six bottles, $5.

statement, and leads a fortune in a few days. I have 100 bushels of wheat worth $80.00 for which I want a bill of goods. I ship my wheat to Liverpool receive $120 less freight $20. Now I have $100 and exchange it for—

Blankets	$12.50
Horse shoes	12.50
Nails	12.50
Avails	12.50
Trace chairs	12.50
Saws	12.50
Files	15.50
Suit of woolen clothing	12.50
Total	$100.00

Now when my bill of goods arrives I am informed by Mr. Tariff that there is due on my bill for protection only the little sum of $59.57 leaving of the price of my wheat $40.23 less back freight, say $30.00 leaving the total value to me of $20.23 for 100 bushels of good wheat. Hurrah for protection! Oh, why don't you hurrah for farmers? Give us a little more protection and we will have to call on the good wife for her butter and eggs to pay back freight. This may not be exactly correct but it is in principle strictly correct.

Notwithstanding this great curse, the tariff, we have yet a greater curse to the laboring masses, that is our financial laws. Capitalists say it is the most perfect, scientific financial law ever conceived by the ingenuity of man, to rob labor of its just earnings; this completes the sentence which they dare not do. Junet, Arkansas. H. D. WELDS.

The Owensboro Inquirer thinks that "if the time-lock of old earth is set for a long enough run, there is some chance yet that the gentler sex may get even with the stronger for the numerous brutal wife murders, which have become shamefully common. A few enterprising ladies have attempted to emulate the masculine example and have made quite a success at butchering their husbands. One of these, at Elédo, Ill., has succeeded in disposing of three partners in as many years; and is yet hardly fairly launched in the business."

It is feared that if any more "real assassins of Dr. Cronin" are arrested and positively identified, they will organize a third party and elect the next President. It's no wonder the poor man died. About one-third of the people in the United States appear to have been actively engaged in his taking off. Everybody has been arrested except old man Bender.

Capo May, cor. graphs that "last evening, Koe sat on the second-story south veranda of the Allen Villa and watched the sun set in the western waters of Delaware bay". Now when we bear in mind the overmastering temptation that bore upon the seaside correspondent to say that the sun refused to set until Baby McKee was all ready for it; that after it had "set," in obedience to an encore from its distinguished audience, it came back and set again; that its usual place of "sitting" was in the eastern waters of Delaware bay, but this time it "sat" in the western waters to please the baby; when we bear in mind that the correspondent could have telegraphed that the baby commanded the sun to "set still" and it obeyed him, when we bear all this in mind and yet see how the correspondent down by the loud-sounding sea not only refrained from saying any of these things, but broke her heart and simply stated that the baby watched the sun-set—which isn't all likely—we feel that such a correspondent deserves a monument. Right away, too.

One of the reasons urged against the use of electricity in capital punishment is that it would "degrade the most useful natural agent that science has ever rendered available for the service of man". If this is true, how degraded must be all ropes; for they have been in use for centuries in capital cases. Shall we take out our window-cords and take in our clothes-lines.—C. J.

The disposition of the surplus in the U. S. Treasury engages the attention of our Statesmen, but a more vital question has our attention, and that is the reduction of the Surplus Consumptives. Never send a dollar away from home, a contemporary says, "when the article that the dollar will purchase can be obtained at home. Money is our financial blood. Its circulation keeps the business body alive. Bleed that body by sending money away from it and soon trade will put on a look of lethargy and inactivity. Always trade at home. It is doubly useful. It helps the persons patronized and finds its way to you again."
